Ireland at Various Periods—New Irish Cabinet

ANCIENT IRELAND TO 1172
Erin in 1172 was divided into the five kingdoms shown. That year witnessed the descent of the English on her shores under Henry II., with the authorization of the then ruling Pope, who was himself an Englishman.

ABSORPTION BY THE ENGLISH, 1172-1690.
The sequestration of the conquered land of Ireland by the English invader is illustrated in this map showing the plantations that were taken possession of by favorites of the Government.

WORST PERIOD, 1691
After the Battle of the Boyne, in 1690, the entire country, with the exception of Connaught, was taken possession of by the English and the system of "landlordism" was established.

IRISH FREE STATE, 1922
The new State created by virtue of the agreement signed between the Irish delegates and the British authorities Dec. 6, 1921. The British Parliament and Dail Eireann have ratified the treaty.

ROYAL CHRISTMAS CAKE FOR EX-SERVICE MEN
The only daughter of the King and Queen of England standing beside Viscount Lascelles, her betrothed, and cutting the cake that she gave to the “Not Forgotten” Association for Christmas party given to wounded ex-service men at the riding school in Buckingham Palace.

COLUMBIA’S BLIND CHECKER PLAYER
Augustine Means, the blind wonder of Columbia University, New York, is not only a wrestler of note but an accomplished checker player. He is here seen in a simultaneous exhibition in which he had twenty competitors. Most of the games he won. He lost his sight when a child through the explosion of a dynamite cap. He has won high marks in his examinations.

BOY SCOUTS IN FLORIDA
The Florida Boy Scouts in their annual encampment in the Everglades, near Musa Isle, gathering coconuts. While their brother scouts are skating and sleighing in most other parts of the country, these scouts, in the scantiest of costumes, are luxuriating under the sunny skies and in the balmy climate of the American State that most closely resembles the tropics.
of Gold For Sale; Statue Dedicated at Greenwich, Conn.

BAVARIAN BED OF GOLD AT AUCTION
This famous bed of gold at Neuschwanstein, Bavaria, is valued at half a million dollars. Springs, canopy and all decorations are said to be of gold. The Bavarian Government is in dire need of money, and has announced its intention to dispose of the truly regal couch to the highest bidder.

MEMORIAL TO COLONEL BOLLING
This statue was unveiled Jan. 7 at Greenwich, Conn., in memory of a former resident of that city, Colonel Raynal Cawthorne Bolling, who was killed by a shot at Amiens, France, March 26, 1918, and is said to have been the first "higher officer" of the United States Army to fall in the World War.

FEDERAL CAPTURES IN RAID ON NARCOTIC DEN
The implements here shown were captured recently by Federal agents in a raid on a resort frequented by those addicted to opium, cocaine and other narcotics. Fountain pens, hollowed canes, "fake" booklets and rings were used to conceal the prohibited drugs.

BAGS OF GOLD TRANSFERRED
More than $2,000,000 is represented by these bags of gold hoisted on the shoulders of men engaged in transferring it on Jan. 8 from the old quarters of the Homestead Bank, Brooklyn, to the new building at Liberty and Pennsylvania Avenues.
Superb view from the sky of the magnificent park and part of the city of Versailles in the environs of Paris. The place has played a famous and at times a tragic part in French history. Here Marie Antoinette faced the mob during the French Revolution; here the treaties were signed at the end of the Franco-Prussian and World Wars. It contains the famous palace of Louis XIV., said to have cost nearly $200,000,000. The gardens are renowned for their wonderful beauty, and are one of the show places of the world.
American Famine Relief for Starving Russians

STAFF OF AMERICAN RELIEF COMMISSION IN RUSSIA
Colonel Haskell (indicated by cross), director of the American relief work in Russia, photographed with his staff of helpers. The pressing need of help for the famine-stricken people is emphasized by the statement of a leading Soviet official, M. Kalinin, that 27,000,000 people were starving. The Soviet Government on Dec. 24 promised Walter Lyman Brown that it would contribute $10,000,000 to purchase food and seed supplies in the United States within the next ninety days. President Harding on Dec. 23 signed the Russian Relief bill, which carries an appropriation of $20,000,000.

PACKING CASE AS INCUBATOR
The scarcity of almost everything in impoverished Russia makes it necessary for the Relief Administration to resort to many makeshifts. An illustration is this packing case used by a Red Cross nurse as an incubator for a tiny unfortunate.

CLOTHING RUSSIAN WAIFS
Group of children who have been provided with warm clothing by the American Relief Administration in place of the rags in which they formerly shivered. The beneficent work of this organization has a value beyond calculation in saving thousands of helpless children from perishing of cold and hunger.
Unveiling Statue of Joan of Arc in Meridian Hill Park, Washington, D.C.

The Ambassador of France to the United States, M. Jules Jusserand, delivering an address at the unveiling of the statue of the Maid of Orleans in Washington on Jan. 6. The statue is an exact duplicate of the world-famous work of Paul Dubois that stands in front of the Cathedral of Rheims, France. It was the gift of the Société des Femmes de France of New York City. Seated in the front row, behind the national colors of the two republics, are President and Mrs. Harding. Next but one to the President is Secretary of War Weeks.
Personalities Claiming Public Attention

INVESTIGATION OF WATSON CHARGES
Photograph taken at the inquiry into charges made by Senator Watson against officers of the A.E.F. during the war. In rear of picture, with hand at head, is Representative Sparks. At his left is A.D. Barkdale, counsel for Major Opie, and next to him is Major Opie, charged with shooting his own men, a charge which he denies.

Magnificent Indian Memorial to Queen Victoria at Calcutt

This superb building of white marble, known as the All-India Queen Victoria Memorial Hall, stands on the banks of the Maidan at Calcutt when Viceroy of India twenty years ago. The actual work of building, delayed somewhat by the war, has taken fifteen years. The vast labor for India during the Victorian era. The dedication of the splendid memorial took place Dec. 28, when the great-grandson of Queen Victoria, once more the shade of Queen Victoria was opened by the heir to the throne. For a moment the ugly schisms that tear at the h

Calcutta, and, with the exception of the Taj Mahal, is the most beautiful building in India. The conception of the structure originated with Lord Curzon. The structure comprises a museum, commemorative of India's glory. It contains portraits of the old Emperors of Delhi and of famous men who accompanied Queen Victoria, the present Prince of Wales, officiated amid scenes of great pomp and splendor. The brilliant uniforms of the Prince's cavalry seemed abroad in the land when in the blazing sunlight of the Calcutta noon the glistening white memorial to her long reign as Empress of India seemed to recede and a glimpse of the older and better time became apparent.
Imposing Victory Arch on Road to Verdun

Design for a magnificent Arc de Triomphe to be erected on the road from Bar-le-Duc to Verdun, which the French have named "Road of Suffering, of Death and of Victory." It was over this road that men, supplies and munitions were rushed to the heroic defenders of Verdun, whose motto has become immortal: "They Shall Not Pass!"

Radium Fields That Have Been Recently Discovered on Lonely British Columbia Islands

Waterfall pouring over radio-active rocks at Open Bay, Valdez Islands; British Columbia. The island is one of two new radium fields discovered by H. E. Neave, who has been engaged in a search for this precious element for nine years.

Radiograph made of a key by radio-active rocks through lightproof paper on ordinary photographic plate. An analysis of the rock made by a London expert shows radium in considerable quantity.

Photographing Fall of Shells

This "triangulation camera," invented by Lieutenant William G. Greenman, U. S. N., is used in the navy to photograph the fall of shells in target practice. When the shells fall and spray is sent up an electrical switch is pressed and four pictures are taken simultaneously, covering an arc of 180 degree.

LONG-RANGE NAVY CAMERA

A telescope is sighted with this camera, so that the photographer can clearly see the object of attack in target practice. It was used during the recent bombing of former German ships in Chesapeake Bay and recorded the effect of each bomb.

Fish and game make living cheap in the vicinity of the newly discovered radium fields. Here is shown 200 pounds of halibut caught within an hour on the west coast of Vancouver Island. The plentifulness of game and fish is of great importance, as it is likely that the discovery of radio-active rock in the vicinity will soon draw a large number of prospectors.
Leviathan Being Prepared for Passenger Service

America's greatest vessel, which is now being reconditioned for passenger service. During the war she was used as a transport, often carrying as many as 15,000 men on a trip. She was formerly the German ship Vaterland and was seized by this Government after the outbreak of the war. It will take many millions of dollars to put her in shape for transatlantic voyaging.

Architects and master mechanics to the number of more than 200 are overhauling the interior of the giant liner. Two electrical experts are here shown tracing and tagging the wires and cables. A large force is necessary, because the German Government refuses to relinquish the ship's plan for less than $1,000,000.

Interior of Future London Home of Princess Mary

The grand staircase at Chesterfield House. It starts in a single stair, branches into two and leads through arches to the ballroom. It is of marble, with superb bronze balustrading. It was brought from Canons, the Duke of Chandos’s residence, in 1747 to become the central feature of the building.

Spacious and beautifully decorated library of Chesterfield House, London, which will be the future home of Viscount Lascelles and his bride, the Princess Mary. It was in this room that the Earl of Chesterfield wrote his famous “Letters to His Son.” The house was built in 1749.

East end of the ballroom, which occupies the whole depth of the house, 63 feet. It is at the head of the grand staircase on the first floor and has been the scene of many magnificent functions in the last 173 years. The house was originally built for the fourth Earl of Chesterfield in 1749, and has since been one of the distinctive buildings of London.

Your feet were like this

The baby girl is born with perfect feet and hands.

She grows to womanhood. Her hands are still perfect.

Her feet? Men who are in a position to know estimate that from 65% to 85% of the women today have not only very imperfect feet, but the majority have some form of foot trouble.

Why do the feet lose their perfection when the baby grows to womanhood—and needs good feet more than ever?

Shoes. There can be no other answer. It is true the human foot carries a load and is taxed daily. But Nature, in her infinite wisdom, designed the human foot to carry its load, to do its full duty in the life of every woman. Nature has not only very imperfect feet, but the majority have some form of foot trouble.

The nearest approach to nature, while retaining every desirable feature of style, is found in the Cantilever Shoe. It is shaped to the natural shape of the foot. The arch is flexible, like the human foot arch.

The flexibility of the Cantilever Shank permits the foot muscles to have free action and assures an easy, graceful step in walking. Exercise strengthens the arch muscles and all through life they never fail to hold in place the small bones forming the foot arch.

CANTILEVER heels are graceful and sensible. They promote good posture, which conduces to good health.

The wonderful Cantilever arch hugs the instep, when the shoe is laced, and affords a gentle, restful support to the foot without unnatural restraint.

Circulation is free. The foot is unrestrained in Cantilever Shoes—free! You can walk with more pleasure and less fatigue. You stand with greater patience. A new ease in shoes delights you—makes those marvelous feet of yours strong, healthy, beautiful, and comfortable!

If no dealer listed at the right is near you, write to the manufacturers, Morse & Burt Co., 11 Carlton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., for the Cantilever Shoe Booklet and the address of a nearby dealer.
